Will You Be Ready to Meet Your Customers' Needs?

SPEAKER: LUANA RUBIN

From the fashion runways of Europe to the fashion magazines of the U.S., your customers will be seeing trends in color, texture, and design for Spring 2009. Are those trends fads or destined to become classic fashion? Which will your customers want? Will you be ready to meet their needs? Luana will explore the long-term vs. short-term trends, the big social and economic trends that affect us all, and the psychology of trend forecasting that you can apply to your own unique customers. Knowing how to pinpoint trends for your customers will prepare you to buy and stock for both those customers who want to work way ahead and those who buy for immediate projects.

Luana Rubin is co-owner and president of eQuilter.com in Boulder, Colorado. She is a member of the Color Marketing Group, an influential association for color design professionals whose mission is to create color forecast information. She is on their Color Visions committee which does the most forward-looking color trend predictions (3-to-5 year trend influences). Luana also writes a weekly newsletter with fashion trends and new product reviews that is e-mailed from the eQuilter.com Web site to over 100,000 subscribers. Her garment, textile, and quilt designs have appeared in numerous magazines, including McCall's Quilting, Sew News, Quilter's Newsletter, and Fabric Trends. Luana has worked as a garment and textile designer for over 25 years, and is currently a licensed designer for Robert Kaufman Fabrics. She is also a Bernina Fashion Show designer and part of the prestigious National Bernina Teachers Reunion.
